

PETE FASSINO

ARTIST BIOGRAPHY

Pete Fassino, our featured woodturner, is from the small farming community of Granville, IL. His love for woodworking was nurtured by studying art design in Italy and through classes by renowned wood turners, Alan Lancer and Dick Sing. He is a member of the American Association of Wood Turners. Pete's work has been featured in art shows throughout Northern Illinois.

Woodturning is the craft of shaping wood with tools while the wood is being spun at high speeds. Turning wood dates back to the ancient Egyptians and has recently enjoyed a renaissance in the United States by artists such as Pete.

His pieces are an artistic expression that highlights each unique piece of wood's own colors and textures. Pete's multicolored ornate wood cutting boards and appetizer trays are some of his featured works. His creative style is showcased in his bowls and wine stands.

Pete and his wife Charlene still reside in the small rural town of Granville. He is a retired bank CEO, businessman, and goodwill ambassador for his community.
